

DULLES FIRM ON WARNING TO AGGRESSORS

Submit Long-Range Water Program to Congress

Says World Must Know Policy of U.S. in Advance

Secretary Steps Squarely Into Raging Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today aggressors must know in advance that the United States would go to war if necessary to defend "its vital interests."

Stepping squarely into the raging controversy over his recent "brink of war" remarks, Dulles said a news conference today is important that the world should know the United States is ready to defend its basic moral values and vital interests, "if need be by life itself."

Dulles said he regretted some of the reaction to the "brink of war" article in Life magazine and said he would not have said some things in the exact way they were written. But he stood firm on the policy of warning in advance that aggression could mean war.

"I believe that the United States should adopt every honorable course to avoid engagement in war," he said. "Indeed, I have devoted my whole life to the pursuit of a just and durable peace."

To Maintain Peace

Reading from a formal statement, Dulles continued:

"I believe, however, that there are basic moral values and vital interests, for which we stand, and that the surest way to avoid war is to let it be known in advance that we are prepared to defend these principles, if need be by life itself."

"This policy of making clear our position in advance, of course, involves risks. As Senator Vandenberg (the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan) said about the North Atlantic treaty, it is a calculated risk for peace."

Dulles said the United States has learned by hard experience that failure to make its position known in advance "makes war more likely because then an aggressor may miscalculate."

He said such a policy of deterring aggression is but one aspect of the task to maintain peace.

Dulles told his news conference: "It is necessary to be patient; it is necessary to be conciliatory; it is necessary to make our peace a vital force for justice and human welfare so that all men will aspire to share that kind of peace."

"Verge of War"

Dulles cited as a dividend on the policy of deterrence a belief that Red China feels the United States will fight to defend Formosa and the Pescadores if the Communists should attack the off-shore islands.

In the controversial Life magazine interview, Dulles had been quoted as saying:

"You have to take chances for peace, just as you must take chances in war. Some say that we were brought to the verge of war. Of course we were brought to the verge of war."

"The ability to get to the verge without getting into the war is the necessary art. If you cannot master it, you inevitably get into war. If you try to run away from it, if you are scared to go to the brink, you are lost. We've had to look in square in the face on the question of enlarging the Korean War, the question of getting into the Indochina War, on the question of Formosa. We walked to the brink and we looked it in the face. We took strong action."

The interview caused an uproar at home and abroad, particularly the reference to "the ability to get on the verge of war."

About Town And Country

Marilyn Geltosky
Paper Demonstrates
High Level at HTHS

A FEW DAYS BACK I got my hands on a paper written in a class at Harrisburg Township high school which reveals that there is more taught out there than reading and writing and 'rithmetic, although more appropriately I should say English and rhetoric and geometry.

The item was written by Marilyn Geltosky in a psychology class taught by H. B. Bauman and it's titled "Psychological Analysis of Some Popular Songs."

WE'RE NOT GOING TO GO into the merits of the opinions expressed, but intend to reproduce at least parts of the paper to demonstrate the high level of education possible in our local high school.

I know I'll probably get some letters saying that judging from some known results that the schools had better concentrate more on spelling and punctuation. But I'll wager that Marilyn can outspell or outpunctuate any of the critics and is qualified to move on farther out in the flowered field of education.

MARILYN STARTS OUT by giving her premise: Our popular songs have a definite effect — which is not good — on the general mental health of the youth of our country. Note the word "general" if you are thinking of an exception.

Calling the majority (note "majority" and not all) of "exaggerated writings which are handicaps to the correct personality adjustment of our youth," she says "these popular lamentations lead people to believe that no one is ever really happy and contented."

And, her article says, "before long they leave such strong impressions on susceptible individuals that everyone believes he must be unhappy and dissatisfied in order to be normal."

AFTER DECLARING that "many of our popular songs bear the complaints of burdened down, helpless human creatures who have no reason to go on living," she lists some examples of songs she contends proves her point:

Songs of complaint and hardship, she lists, are "Sixteen Tons," "Old Man River," "That Lucky Old Sun," and "Go Down, Moses."

"A great many of our popular songs would lead us to believe that nearly everyone is lonely or has been 'done wrong' by some lover," she writes, and lists "Want-ed," "My Heart Cries for You," "I'm Walking the Floor Over

Will Overcome Shortages, Boost Supply

Cabinet Committee Report Criticizes Federal Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower submitted to Congress today a long-range program to overcome the nation's growing water shortages and insure a supply of 350 billion gallons a day by 1975.

In a special message to the House and Senate, Mr. Eisenhower forwarded a report on water resources policy prepared by a Cabinet committee after a 20-month study. It sharply criticized "lack of cooperation and coordination" among federal agencies dealing with flood control, irrigation and other water problems.

It also called for local governments and private industry to bear more of the costs of furnishing an adequate water supply.

The report warned that the nation is experiencing the first symptoms of a water shortage, which will grow steadily more acute unless far-sighted action is taken.

Increased Water Use

It said the country is now using 200 billion gallons of water daily and will need an estimated 350 billion gallons daily by 1975.

"The policies we adopt for the development of our water resources," Mr. Eisenhower said, "will have a profound effect in the years to come upon our domestic, agricultural and industrial economy."

The report said Americans now use an average of 145 gallons of water each day from public water supplies. This "tremendous need" is expected to rise, by 1975, to 175 gallons a day, reflecting the increased use of water in homes for such purposes as air conditioning. On top of this household use, there is the "staggering" demand for water in industry and agriculture. For example, the report noted, it requires 65,000 gallons of water to produce one ton of steel. Counting such uses, daily consumption amounts to 1,200 gallons per person.

Already, it said, "shortages of water for domestic and agricultural use are frequent. Industry is finding it increasingly difficult to locate adequate water supplies. Many streams are seriously polluted."

While too little water is the problem in many areas, the report noted, others are occasionally devastated by too much—in the form of floods.

"Water Coordinator"

"Lack of adequate planning threatens to impose a water scarcity which can become a limiting factor on the growth of some of our cities, while at the same time flood damage in many areas continues to be great."

The report endorsed a number of controversial Hoover Commission proposals, including the appointment of a top-level "water coordinator" who would represent the President in overseeing the work of all federal agencies concerned with water.

The committee which prepared the report was appointed by the President in May, 1954. Members included Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

Mr. Eisenhower said he will submit legislation later to carry out recommendations in the report.

Davenport's to Open Jewelry Store About March 1

L. N. Davenport, head of the Davenport Furniture and Carpet store, today announced that he is opening a jewelry store around March 1 to be known as the Davenport Jewelry store and which will be managed by his son, Tom.

Tom has been associated with his father and brother, Robert, at the furniture store. Robert will manage the furniture store, L. N. Davenport stated.

The new jewelry store will be in the Davenport-Seten building on West Poplar street adjacent to Jackson's drug store. Ewell Winkelman, who operated Ewell's jewelry store at this site for several years, will remain as watchmaker.

The building will be remodeled and redecorated into a modern jewelry store, which will sell china and glassware in addition to jewelry items.

Mr. Davenport said he will extend to customers the privilege of a budget account, such as is operated at the furniture store.

Death Takes John Grathler

Place $64.50 Share Price Tag On Ford Stock

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge investment banking syndicate today placed a $64.50 a-share price tag on Ford Motor Co. stock.

The long-awaited announcement on how much the public must pay to buy an interest in the nation's biggest privately owned company came shortly before 722 brokerage firms prepared to sign final contracts for the sale of 10,200,000 shares of Ford stock.

The price was in line with the predictions of Wall Street experts. Brokers expect the Ford Shares to sell at a fast clip.

At $64.50 a share, the offering of 10,200,000 shares will total $657,900,000, making it the biggest offering in history.

The stock is being sold by the Ford Foundation. It will go on sale to the public Wednesday through brokers on an "over the counter" basis. Demand for shares is expected to boost the price considerably above the original offering price.

A prospectus filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington showed that the 722 brokerage houses which will sell the stock to the public will receive $1.50 a share in underwriting discounts and commissions, totaling $15,300,000.

The foundation actually will receive, after discounts and commissions are paid, $64,600,000.

The SEC is expected to "clear" the statement sometime today, paving the way for actual sale of the shares Wednesday.

Brokers at once began accepting definite orders from their customers for the first time. The stock will be parceled out in small lots because of the tremendous demand for it.

The sale marks the end of Ford's history as a privately owned firm.

Seven New Oil Pools Discovered in State In December; One Near Harrisburg

URBANA, Ill. — The Illinois oil industry ended one of its biggest years with the discovery of seven new oil pools in December, according to John C. Frye, chief of the State Geological Survey division of the Department of Registration and Education.

Thirty-five new oil pools were discovered in 1955, including the seven in December, as compared with 25 to 30 new pools annually in recent years.

The December discoveries were Albion Central in Edwards county, Centerville Northeast in White county, Edinburg South in Christian county, Francis Mills South and Harrisburg East in Saline county, Pinkstaff East in Lawrence county and Posen South in Washington county.

During last year 3,885 wells were drilled for oil or gas, according to the December Drilling report.

U. S. Steel, GM Agree Future Will Be 'Good'

Curtice, Fairless, Sloan Express Faith in Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Leaders in two bellwether industries — auto and steel — agree the future is "bound to be good" and revealed billion dollar expansions backing up their confidence.

General Motors Corp., the world's biggest manufacturer, announced Monday it was hiking capital spending to one billion dollars in 1956, or more than a third higher than the previous record outlay and nearly two-thirds greater than capital spending in 1955.

GM President Harlow H. Curtice, in announcing the expansion before top business leaders here, said it reflects GM's belief "another record year" is in store for business in 1956. But the gains will be lower than in 1955—"the most outstanding year in the history of our country from a business and economic standpoint."

At the same time Benjamin F. Fairless, former chairman of United States Steel Corp., said at a news conference the steel industry has launched the biggest peacetime expansion program in history in a show of confidence in the future.

Fairless, now president of the American Iron & Steel Institute, said steel companies plan to boost ingot capacity over a three-year period by 15 million tons at a cost of more than three billion dollars.

This would increase capacity to 143 million tons, against 92 million tons at the end of World War II. Last year with capacity rated at 126 million tons the industry's actual production was 117 million tons — far in excess of anything before in history.

Fairless said the gigantic expansion move is impelled by expected population increases and the fact that "each American is using more things made of steel than ever before."

Both Fairless and Curtice were joined by another key industry leader, Alfred P. Sloan, board chairman of General Motors, who spoke along with Curtice at a lunch kicking off the GM industrial extravaganza, the Motorama.

Sloan told the 600 top business leaders at the lunch 1956 is "bound to be a good year. I don't think we need to worry about it."

Sloan further declared if President Eisenhower runs for re-election "all the uncertainties in the nation's long-time economic outlook will be gone with the wind."

Plan Golden Anniversary of Saline Fair

Plans for the golden anniversary of the Harrisburg fair were begun tentatively at the annual meeting of the Saline County Agricultural association Monday night.

George Barnes will again head the fair as president, having been re-elected with other officers at the meeting.

The full roster of the fair association:

The fair dates for this year will be from Sunday, July 29, through Friday, August 3.

The L. J. Heath shows have already been contracted to appear, and a committee of directors will attend the annual meeting of the Illinois Association of County Fairs at Springfield this week-end, to preview some of the other entertainment to be contracted.

There will be no competing fairs in southern Illinois on the Saline fair dates this year, which would be favorable for the largest number of exhibits in many years.

Here in Saline county the following additional persons had filed for precinct committeeman by 10 a. m. today:

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Dulles Paints Gloomy Picture
To Senators; Like Painted Rosey
Picture To Congress; Rogue River Probers Have Witness Problems.

WASHINGTON. — Less than a week after Ike's State of the Union message stressing the rosy foreign outlook, Secretary of State Dulles gave a long, gloomy, country-by-country report to the Senate Foreign Relations committee behind closed doors.

Dulles complained about Communist gains in the French general assembly, the West German political realignment reducing Chancellor Adenauer's majority,
and Prime Minister Eden's slipping prestige in England. He also confessed "concern" over the brewing trouble in the Middle East, North Africa, and the Far East.

Listening carefully, Minnesota's blunt-tongued Sen. Hubert Humphrey finally blurted: "I am having a little difficulty, Mr. Secretary, squaring your account of these trouble spots with the President's State of the Union message."

Dulles stammered something about the "over-all picture" being good, then Indiana's GOP Sen.
Homer Capehart came to his rescue.

"Would you say, Mr. Secretary, that taking the free world as a whole conditions are much, much better than they were and people are much better off than they were?" he asked helpfully.

Hastily Dulles agreed.

"You mean conditions in India
are good?" demanded Sen. Bill Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat.

"Conditions in India are better,"
defended the secretary.

"Since the subject of India has come up," broke in Humphrey again, "I would like to know why you made your Goa statement."

This diplomatic pronouncement, favoring Portuguese rule over the disputed Goa colony in India, caused outraged reaction throughout India.

Dulles admitted he was trying to please the Portuguese foreign minister who was visiting this country at the time.

"I knew my statement would cause some concern in India," the secretary said. "But failure to make the statement would have caused concern in Portugal. You can't please everyone. Sound diplomacy called for us to make the statement while the Portuguese
foreign minister was in this country."

Both Humphrey and Fulbright disputed whether this was good diplomacy, and the closed-door meeting ended on a note of bipartisan strain.

DIVORCE AND GIVEAWAY

The Interior Department is going to unusual lengths to coach and shield witnesses testifying before Congress on the Rogue River
national forest giveaway.

The latest is the case of J. R.
Thoenen, head of the Bureau of Mines at Norris, Tenn., whom Sen.
Kerr Scott (D., N. C.) requested to be present and testify why he ok'd an assay firm in Mobile, Ala., to assay alleged gold in ore from the Al Sarena mining claim in Oregon. Hitherto, no government bureau had been able to find more than an infinitesimal, unprofitable trace of gold in the ore, yet
the Alabama firm suddenly and surprisingly came up with the opinion that a lot of ore existed
in them thar hills.

Since then, the ore samples have been dumped in the Rogue river and no gold mining has been done on the property. But plenty of timber cutting has which of course was the real reason why the McDonald family of Mobile lobbied to get hold of this valuable forest land for only $5 an acre.

When the senators asked that key witness Thoenen testify, however, the Interior Department replied: "He's in Tennessee with a sick wife who's hospitalized with heart disease. He can't leave."

The senators, however, discovered quite the contrary. The wife was not in a hospital in Tennessee, but an ex-wife was on the warpath in Washington. She was living in wait for Thoenen with a subpoena for non-support.

Faced with this information,
James Parriott, associate solicitor
of the Interior Department, admitted he had lied, claimed he was only trying to protect Thoenen, didn't want him jailed for non-support.

Finally, however, Parriott changed his tactics, called the Senate committee and advised:

"You can serve a subpoena on Thoenen at the George Mason hotel in Alexandria, Va. He will be there waiting for you."

Parriott had looked into the lawbooks and found that if a man is under subpoena under one process he cannot be served with another. If under subpoena from the Senate, therefore, he could enter the District of Columbia without getting into the clutches of his wife.

KEATING WHITEWASH

It isn't supposed to be known but Congressman Ken Keating of Rochester, N. Y., Republican, is writing a whitewash report on the custodial buildings boss, Peter Strobel—forced to resign because of a conflict of interest.

Keating's report is ignoring seven cases of improprieties and nine violations of the code of ethics,
cited by Strobel's own Republican boss, Ed Mansure. In fact, Keating himself, on page 164 of the public hearings admitted that one of Strobel's deals was "unethical."

However, orders have gone out
from New York Republican headquarters to whitewash Strobel.
Congressman Keating, a good Republican, is carrying out orders.

Note — The FBI is still probing
the Strobel case.

HOUSING FOR OLDSTERS

Alabama's Congressman Albert
Rains is preparing a report recommending public housing for the aged.

Rains heads a House subcommittee that has been busily investigating housing problems while other subcommittees have been junketing overseas.

The subcommittee found that thousands of old folks, forced to retire at 65 on pensions as low as $85 per month, are living miserably in slums. As a result, the Rains report will call for public housing for oldsters whose incomes are too low to provide decent shelter.

The same report will blast the Federal Housing Administration
for tying up slum clearance in red tape. The subcommittee found, for example, that one New York builder — George Axelrod — spent five years wangling FHA financing for a slum-clearance project in Harlem.

The Mennonites received their name from Menno Simons, who was the leader of the sect in Holland.

There are more than 900,000 species of animal life known at present, including 675,000 insects.

dent Eisenhower does not run
again, well-posted Wisconsin Republicans here said today.

And if Mr. Eisenhower should bow out, the Wisconsin primary could provide something of a test between Nixon and his fellow Californian, Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland. There has been no indication, however, that Nixon personally would be entered in any presidential primaries.

The Wisconsin GOP organization has lined up a slate of national convention delegate candidates to run pledged to Mr. Eisenhower in the April 3 primary. But the President must consent by March 2 for this slate to run under his name.
If he does not, the delegate candidates probably would be pledged to Gov. Walter J. Kohler as a favorite son.

According to a number of Wisconsin Republicans of varying viewpoints, the slate can be regarded as a "Nixon delegation" if Mr. Eisenhower should decide against seeking a second term.

Other political developments:
Adlai Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic nomination, planned to file his name for the March 20 Minnesota primary today at St.
Paul. He would be the first candidate to enter that primary although Sen. Estes Kefauver (D.
Tenn.) was considering doing so.

Kefauver said in a Washington speech Monday night that he would not utter "a disparaging word" against Stevenson or New York Gov. Averell Harriman in competing with them for the Democratic nomination.

It was announced in a surprise
move that Knowland's name
would be entered in the April 10 Illinois primary. The President's

Billy Graham Tells of His Objectives In Far East Tour in Letter to Editor

In a letter to Curtis G. Small, editor of The Daily Register, Evangelist Billy Graham tells of his objectives in a tour to India and the Far East—Christianity and an attempt to build good will for the United States in the area recently visited by Soviet leaders Khrushchev and Bulganin.

The letter follows:
January 14, 1956
Mr. Curtis G. Small, Editor
Harrisburg Daily Register
Harrisburg, Illinois

Dear Mr. Small:
Just a note to let you know that we are leaving this week end for India and then the Far East. We are taking this tour with two objectives in mind: first, to present Christianity; and, secondly, to try and build some good will for the United States. Khrushchev and Bulganin have made a tremendous and at least a partially successful bid to the masses of India. This is a strategic subcontinent. One out of every six people in the world is an Indian. We cannot ignore the strategic importance of these people!

Many people do not realize that the earliest Christian churches in the world are found in India. They were founded by Saint Thomas in the early part of the first century.
All the churches of various denominations are cooperating in these meetings, and it is estimated that from 50,000 to 100,000 people a day will come to our meetings. We are hoping that the people of India will realize that we in the United States have something of moral and spiritual value to offer as well as economic aid and engineering know-how.

In addition to the cities we visit in India, we will be holding great public meetings in Hong Kong, Manila, Taipei, and various cities in Japan and Korea.

It is going to be interesting to see how these vast masses of humanity will respond to the same message that has been successfully presented in Europe and America.
It seems to me that we in America
have failed in the psychological warfare. I feel that a spiritual presentation is at least one contribution that can be made toward making friends with the masses of people. In the past we have been able to reach the leaders and some of the intellectuals, but we have utterly failed to reach the masses.
Bulganin and Khrushchev were smart enough to go over the heads of the leaders and appeal directly to the people. In my opinion, we need to do the same thing.

I believe the people in the area
covered by your paper will be vitally interested and I hope you will carry such reports as the wire services will send.

Thank you for your sympathetic
coverage of our work in the past.
Cordially yours,
/s/ Billy Graham

TUBERCULIN TESTING PROGRAM DISCUSSED AT STAFF MEETING

On Friday, Dec. 16, the Egyptian Health Department held a staff meeting of all personnel within the tri-county unit at the main office in El-Dokki. During the morning meeting the staff reviewed tuberculin testing policies and plans were made for a campaign for early detection of tuberculosis.

In the afternoon all 13 high school principals and school superintendents, the three county superintendents and school nurses
from Saline and White counties were invited to participate in a group discussion. All of these groups are working very hard to promote participation in this program. Dr. James Wells, health officer, informed the group that tuberculosis presents the number one communicable disease problem today, and kills more people than all other infectious diseases combined.
Yet tuberculosis is a preventable disease.

A calendar of dates for the tuberculin testing program was distributed and the dates, time and places of the next visit of the mobile x-ray units were also presented to the group.

It was pointed out during the meeting that at least 95 to 100 per cent of the high school students should participate in the tuberculin testing program. Yet last year in Gallatin county 85% took the tuberculin test, 75% in White and only 59% in Saline county. These figures are alarming.

Let's stop and look at the tuberculin test. The tuberculin test is a test which tells whether or not the tubercle bacilli has ever invaded the body. All that's done is to put some clear fluid called tuberculin between the layers of the skin, usually on the forearm. The place on the skin where the test
has been made will be examined three days later. When the doctor has checked the size, shape, and color of the mark, you will be told one of two things—Your test is negative — this means that your body contains no TB germs, or your test is positive. This does not mean that you have tuberculosis,
but only that some germs have entered your body at one time or other. If your health is good, your body usually keeps those germs from doing any damage. However, all of the high school students who have a positive reaction to this test
will be given a chest x-ray.

Let's take advantage of this free tuberculin test and the free mobile x-ray. Think of that inner feeling of security to yourself, your children, and the people around you when your tuberculin test or x-ray comes back negative.

Following the meeting refreshments were served and an early adjournment was planned to enable administrators to return to their schools prior to dismissal.

Attic insulation should be check-ed before cold weather to provide maximum heat protection during the winter.

Smallest moth in the world seems to be the golden pigmy of Great Britain, which has a wingspread of hardly one quarter inch.

Senators Urge Ridgway Be Called To Explain Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Democratic senators suggested today that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway be called before the Senate Armed Services Committee to explain his charge that the Eisenhower administration cut Army strength for "political considerations."

The senators — Mike Mansfield of Montana and Henry M. Jackson of Washington — said Congress should have the benefit of the former Army chief of staff's views on the reasons for and validity of the Army cutbacks.

Ridgway, who retired as chief of staff after splitting with the President on defense policies, charged in a Saturday Evening Post article that the administration has measured "our country's security in terms of dollars instead of the men and guns needed."

In a speech in New York Monday night, Defense Secretary Chas. E. Wilson said President Eisenhower recently warned his Cabinet that excessive defense spending might disrupt the nation's economy and lead to dictatorship.

Wilson said the secret Cabinet meeting took place in December.

Stevenson Enters Minnesota Primary

Illinois GOP May Have Choice in Presidential Race

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois Republicans may have a choice between President Eisenhower and Sen. William Knowland in the state's presidential preferential primary April 10.

Neither man is an avowed candidate for the presidency. But Mr. Eisenhower's name was entered in the primary Monday and a Knowland supporter said his name would be filed by the end of the week.

The name of Gen. Douglas MacArthur was also entered in the GOP primary by Lar Daly, a perennial state office-seeker from Chicago. Daly said that if MacArthur wants his name withdrawn, he will enter his own or that of Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana.

Republican Gov. William G. Stratton spearheaded the drive to put Mr. Eisenhower on the ballot and personally submitted petitions bearing the necessary 5,000 names.

Benson Favors Sale
Of Food to 'Other
Than Friendly' Nations

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Secretary
of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson today favored the sale of surplus U.
S. farm commodities to "other than friendly countries" to help relieve the decline in the national farm income.

"We (the administration) urge that sales of surplus agricultural commodities to other than friendly countries be permitted under conditions that protect our national interests," Benson told the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives convention here Monday.

Benson said such a program of sale or barter is necessary to help reduce domestic surpluses which,
he estimated, reduced farm income
by more than two billion dollars
last year. Without surpluses, Benson said, farm income today might have been 10 per cent higher.

ultimate in automatic, foolproof control. But do Chrysler's competitors have this mechanical trouble-free system? Not yet! Chrysler's PowerPilot Steering works full time . . . does 80% of the work, not just in parking,
but in long distance driving, in traffic and in rough going. Competitive power steering cuts in and out . . .
does only a fraction of this job.

And what about engines? Chrysler was first to adopt the principles of the airplane-type V-8 engine. Today's engine is a new and bigger version of this engine . . . 250 hp in the Windsor
Spitfire V-8 . . . 280 hp in the New Yorker FirePower
V-8 and now 340 hp in the blazing new Chrysler 300-B.

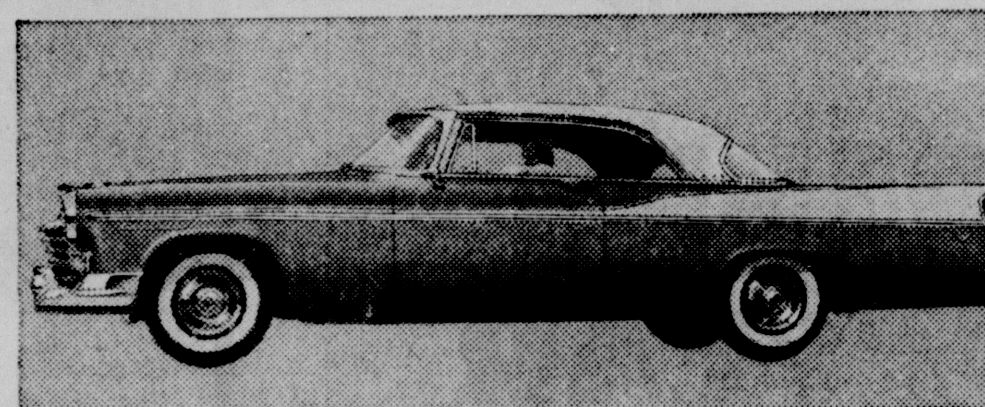

Then there is the all-important matter of brakes.
Chrysler's newly designed PowerSmooth Brakes not only bring you safer, surer, straight-line stops—they outlast the others 2 to 1.

So if you have been driving another make of car in Chrysler's price class . . . ask yourself this question:
Don't I want to know what my money can buy before
I spend it? Then make a drive-then-both comparison.
We'll leave everything else to your judgment.

*With the addition of the Chrysler Power Train at slight extra cost.

AN INVITATION... to the man who is driving any car in the medium-price class

How you can own a bigger, more powerful Chrysler
Windsor V-8 for the cost of a medium-priced car

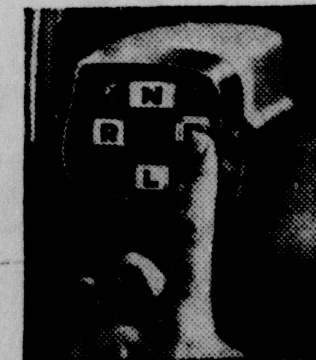

Frankly, we believe you will find that the Chrysler Windsor is the only real luxury car that sells at a medium price . . . a car far in advance of its contemporaries and ahead of its time. We would like to put you behind the wheel of this car . . . because we've found from actual comparative demonstrations that 3 out of 4 open-minded men who drive a Chrysler for the first time prefer it to anything else.

There are many reasons. In the first place, the 1956 Chrysler is the only car in its price class that has been completely restyled this year. It has that "hair-trigger" look for which designers have been striving many years.
We call it "PowerStyle."

But there's more to the Chrysler story than styling. There's power . . . more power to pass safely when necessary . . . more power to drive without effort . . . more power to stop.

There is not a car on the road today as completely power-operated as the "Power-Style" Chrysler. Its PowerFlite transmission is controlled by pushbuttons . . . the

Big Turnout Expected at Louisiana Polls

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Voters in this politically turbulent state balled today in the first primary since Reconstruction days in which segregation and a big Negro voting registration loomed as significant factors in the selection of a new Louisiana governor.

Cool weather was expected to favor a turnout of a big percentage of the more than one million registered voters despite possible occasional rains in the northwestern part of the state.

Segregation has become a key issue because of some candidates attacking their opponents on the ground that they have made "deals" with Negro organizations and are secretly in favor of integration.

Some 6,000 Republicans also were eligible to vote on candidates for lieutenant governor and state legislative posts. About 155,000 Negroes, a 60 per cent increase over 1952, were registered to vote.

Nomination in the primary is tantamount to election in this traditionally Democratic state, but to win a candidate must obtain more than 50 per cent of the combined vote received by his opponents.

Earl K. Long, 60-year-old governor of Louisiana from 1948-52 and brother of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, headed the field of five gubernatorial candidates.

Long was expected to receive his chief opposition from Mayor Chep Morrison, 44, of New Orleans, the "wonder" of Louisiana politics.

The other candidates are Fred Prouss, 43, former chairman of the State Highway Board who has been endorsed by Gov. Robert F. Kennon; Francis Grevenberg, 41, whose anti-gambling campaign as state police superintendent under the Kennon administration received a nationwide notice; and James McEmore, 48, a businessman making his second bid for governor.

All the candidates have pledged to preserve segregation in this state which has defied the U. S. Supreme Court ruling banning segregation in public schools and, also, the recent Interstate Commerce Commission order against segregation of interstate travelers.

City Payments to Municipal Retirement Fund Increased

Starting the first of this year, the city of Harrisburg is having to fork over more of its funds to the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund.

Under statutory provisions, both contributions from the city and from city employees go into this fund.

For several years the city has paid 9.03 per cent of its gross payroll into the fund. Jan. 1 the figure went up to 11.25 per cent.

Participants in the past have been deducted as follows: Females five per cent and males five per cent plus one and a half per cent for widow's annuity. Now female employees are being deducted six per cent and male employees six per cent plus one per cent widow's annuity.

City police and firemen are participants in the Municipal Retirement fund.

Smaller cans on grocery shelves beside the familiar No. 2 can are size 303, manufactured to eliminate the problem of "leftovers."

25 Incumbent State Senators and 112 Representatives File Petitions

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Twenty-five incumbent state senators and 112 representatives filed for re-nomination to those posts as filings for the primary opened Monday.

There were numerous legislators and former legislators, however, who decided the new legislative reapportionment gave them a better chance in the opposite house.

Among the incumbent representatives who have filed for the Senate were Republicans Arthur W. Sprague, La Grange; Pauline Rinkler, Carlinville; and Herschel S. Green, West York. Democratic representatives who filed for the Senate included Paul A. Ziegler, Carmi; William J. (Bill) Lyons, Gillespie; and Carl H. Priests, Pana.

Running for House seats will be Sen. William G. Clark (D-Chicago) and former Republican Sens. Peter J. Miller and Arthur Larson, both of Chicago.

Nearly all the legislators will be running in unfamiliar districts due to the 1955 remapping and drawing of separate House and Senate districts instead of combined districts.

In the Senate, members are being elected from even-numbered districts and newly created odd-numbered districts for two year terms.

Sen. Roland V. Libonati (D-Chicago), who had announced his retirement, changed his mind and filed for the Senate from the 7th District. Former Democratic Sens. Russell Waters of Liberty and Timothy Donnelly of Carlinville filed, both in districts crowded with Senate candidates.

House Speaker Warren L. Wood (R-Plainfield) and Majority Leader William E. Pollack (R-Chicago) filed for re-nomination, as did Democratic Leader Paul Powell of Vienna. Former Reps. Reed Cutler (R-Lewistown) and William J. McDonald (R-Murphysboro) filed for comeback attempts.

A notable House absence was Rep. Richard Stengel (D-Rock Island), whose petitions were filed as the endorsed candidate of the Democratic Party for the U. S. Senate.

You, "I Get So Lonely," "Blue Moon," "I'm a Lonesome Polecat," "Why Don't You Like Me Like You Used to Do," "I Understand," "Tennessee Waltz" and "I'm Walking Behind You" as good examples.

"These songs," she says, "might lead certain individuals to believe that no one could ever be happy with the opposite sex and lead to jealousy or contempt."

NEXT ARE LISTED songs of temptation, of dejection and "numerous songs and ballads which would have us believe that all women are wicked and untrue."

About songs such as those above, Miss Gelatosky says we must "refuse to be gullible to their harmful contents. We should, rather, learn to look for the brighter side of things by possessing an optimistic attitude towards life and our fellow beings. Only through this proper method of thinking will we be able to keep ourselves well-adjusted and contented with ourselves and our associates."

CLASS DISMISSED: let'er rip, Greek.

An arch is kept from falling by the keystone, the middle stone at the arch's crown, holding the other pieces in place.

The average life expectancy of a dollar bill is only nine months, according to the U. S. Treasury.

A number of districts, such as the 20th and 49th representative, where incumbents were thrown together to fight for more posts than are available, assured the defeat of incumbents.

Nixon Receives Quarter-Mile Thank You Note

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today received a quarter-mile thank you note signed by 40,392 teen-agers. The note from Junior Achievement Inc. thanked Nixon for sponsoring the teen-age organization's conference here Feb. 1.

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower in a message for National Thrift Week said today he hopes more young people and adults will increase the practice of thrift.

Thrift Week begins today on the 25th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin. In his message to the National Thrift Committee, Mr. Eisenhower said he hoped the observance will "stimulate in young people and adults alike an increased practice of thrift and an increased awareness of its importance to the individual and to our economy."

Smartest Buy in the fine-car field

You've probably noticed that more and more people seem to be stepping into the upper circle of fine cars.

And there can be no doubt that "good times" have a lot to do with this.

But all by itself, it doesn't explain the sudden spurt in sales of the finest of Buicks—the 1956 ROADMASTER.

For it has always been our experience that folks with the wherewithal to buy any car they choose are apt to be the choosiest of all.

So it seems quite clear that the marked and increasing preference for ROADMASTER is in the fineness of the car itself.

We can tell you why very simply.

ROADMASTER starts off with all the virtues that have vaulted the full line of Buicks to soaring popular favor—then caps that acclaim with a worthiness all its own.

You sense this especial eminence at once—in the individualized styling of this gracefully proportioned car.

You recognize it again—in the quiet elegance of its custom appointments—and in the good taste of its luxurious fabrics and color harmonies.

But you know it for sure in the lift and thrill and spirit of ROADMASTER performance.

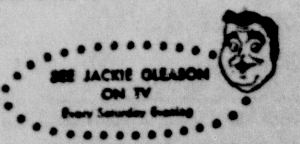

For here is the obedient might of the highest-powered V8 engine in Buick history—coupled to the flash-fast response and absolute smoothness of an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo—most modern transmission in motoring today.

And here is Buick comfort, Buick handling ease, Buick roadability, and the great Buick ride—each brought to its peak in this Buick of Buicks.

In all truth, no man who puts true merit above mere symbol could ask for more than is his in ROADMASTER.

If that applies to you, we'll be happy to arrange an introduction. Will you phone us—or come in—for a demonstration soon?

Democrats Split In Debate on Natural Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of the controversial natural gas bill warned the Senate today that its defeat might cause a fuel shortage in the East.

The bill would exempt independent gas producers from direct federal price regulation.

As the Senate swung into its second day of debate on the measure, Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said federal price controls will result in less gas at higher prices in interstate pipelines.

He argued that because of federal controls fewer gas wells are being completed.

The debate over the bill has sharply split Democratic ranks in the Senate. But the first day's argument Monday was calm and good-natured.

Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.), who held the floor for four hours, said producers would prefer to sell their gas within their own states to avoid the "uncertainties" of "red tape" of existing interstate regulation.

Opponents charge freeing producers from federal control would increase the fuel costs of 30 million gas consumers. But Fulbright and Monroney said the measure contains adequate protection against "unreasonable price increases."

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.) said, however, that passage of the bill "would be highly detrimental to the interests of the people."

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), echoing Hennings' statement, said the "big boys" will benefit and consumers will pay more for natural gas if the bill is passed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will hold a news conference at 9:30 a. m. CST Thursday, the White House announced today.

Two Killed In Ambulance; Driver is Held

GARY, Ind. (AP) — An ambulance driver was booked for investigation of reckless homicide today in a three-vehicle wreck that killed two of his passengers and critically injured a third.

Killed outright in Monday's crash was William E. Duncker, 80, Walkerton, Ind., a bed-ridden patient in the ambulance. His 79-year-old wife, riding with him, died about a half-hour later at Gary Methodist hospital.

Martin Mellin, 62, Walkerton, the ambulance attendant, was injured critically. The ambulance driver, Ray Nussbaum, 45, Walkerton funeral director, suffered minor injuries.

Other vehicles involved in the collision were a Gary Railway bus, containing 15 grade school pupils, and a car.

Police said the ambulance, speeding along U. S. 4 with its siren blaring, entered an intersection against a red light.

Bus driver Willard Gannetzkzy, 40, said he did not hear the siren, but swerved when he saw the ambulance enter the intersection. The ambulance caromed off the rear of the bus and rammed into the Barrett car, then shot 16 feet thru the air and landed on its top against a traffic signal post.

Duncker, a Spanish-American war veteran, was being rushed to the Hines Veterans Administration hospital near Chicago. Authorities said he had suffered a slight stroke and was in serious condition.

Find Secret Data In Briefcase of Slain Engineer

GEORGETOWN, Mass. (AP) — Top secret East Coast defense blue-prints were found today in the briefcase of a murdered engineer.

The body of Robert H. Himmler, 31, Cumberland, Md., an employee of the Bendix Engineering Co. of Maryland, had been found Saturday night in a cemetery here. Police said he had been shot twice at close range with a pistol.

His car was found abandoned in Boston early today with the briefcase and ransacked suitcases in it. After the slaying the car was used in a $50 gasoline station hold-up, police said.

The gasoline station owner said he was sure he could identify the holdup man if he saw him again, police said.

The FBI said the briefcase contained blueprints for various NIKE and other radar defenses for the East Coast. It was not known whether any of the papers were missing.

Police said it was possible that Himmler was shot to death by a hitchhiker who did not know the value of the papers.

Plane Crashes in Quebec; 2 Dead, One is Missing

QUEBEC CITY (AP) — A twin-engine airliner with 18 occupants crashed in the rugged iron ore country of northern Quebec early today. The pilot and a passenger were killed and the co-pilot was listed as missing.

The dead were Capt. Gerard Belanger, 32, Sherbrooke, Que., the pilot, and Rene Bernatchez, a passenger whose address was not immediately available. The missing co-pilot was Daniel Sicard.

The hostess, Denise Jobidon, was injured critically and the other occupants suffered minor injuries.

The pilot radioed shortly after midnight that one of his DC3's engines had caught fire. He said he was trying to make an emergency landing in the snow-covered bush near Orway Lake, about midway between Knob Lake and Seven Islands.

The pilot gunned the one good engine in an effort to stay airborne and dropped several flares in a bid to spot a suitable place to land. But he was unable to find a level, unobstructed field in the sparsely settled area.

The air force sent a ground party to the area from Orway Lake, about a mile from where the plane went down. The ground party planned to take the bodies to the small community until it was decided where to send them.

Bulganin Failure To Appear in Public Causes Speculation

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Niko-lai Bulganin's failure to appear in public since Jan. 4 has caused some speculation in the diplomatic corps whether he is ill, out of town or resting.

Bulganin last showed up at an East German embassy reception on the occasion of East German President Wilhelm Pieck's 80th birthday Jan. 4.

Since then other members of the Presidium received an Iranian parliamentary delegation on Jan. 9 and attended the Moscow premier of the American opera "Porgy and Bess" on Jan. 10 without Bulganin.

The Soviet Press Department refused to comment on rumors emanating abroad that Bulganin was ill. Foreign Ministry Press Chief Leonid Ilichev also declined to discuss the rumors at a news conference.

Western diplomats who saw Bulganin at a New Year's Eve dinner at the Kremlin said the premier looked well but somewhat tired.

Illinois Beats Purdue, 92-76, In Race for Big Ten Title; Michigan Bows to Badgers

CHICAGO —The bubble burst Monday night for two of the Big Ten's "Cinderella" teams while unbeaten Illinois kept right on rolling toward its first championship in four years.

Purdue, seeking to return to the golden days when it was a basketball power, and Michigan plummeted from their lofty second place tie to the brink of the second division as they bowed for the second time.

Michigan suffered the worst humiliation, bowing to a Wisconsin team that had managed to win only 2 of 12 games all season. The Badgers, using only five players, grabbed an early lead and stopped the Wolverines, 69-58, for their first conference win in five games.

Michigan's Ron Kramer was high point man with 18, but four Badgers counted 14 or more points and center Dan Folz was low with 8.

Illinois took the wind out of Purdue's sails, beating the Boilermakers on their home court, 92-76. Purdue and Michigan had each won three of their first four Big Ten starts.

Sunshine Returns to California and Florida; Fuel Strike Hits New York

By United Press
Sunshine broke through over California floodlands and frostbitten Florida today.
But man-made troubles intensified wintry weather in New York City. A strike of 3,000 fuel truck drivers went into its second day, cutting off 60 per cent of fuel oil supplies and nearly all coal deliveries for heating purposes in the big town.

The strike came in the midst of a January cold spell, with temperatures expected to dip below freezing tonight. Mayor Robert Wagner and other officials recommended heat conservation measures, including the early banking of furnaces in the city's myriad apartment houses.

Dike Still Holds
Across the nation in California, bright sunshine dried out floodlands and increased hopes that a soggy dike would prevent a new torrent at beleaguered Yuba City. The dike holding back the Feather river was so soft it shook "like a bowl of jelly." Officials said the dike was beginning to dry in the sun, but evacuated residents were warned not to return to their homes.

Elsewhere in northern California, weekend floods were blamed for four deaths. President Eisenhower extended a disaster proclamation issued during disastrous Christmas week floods to include new areas.

There was another sad accounting under way in Florida, where the state's worst cold wave in 61 years took 14 lives and more than 50 million dollars in crop losses.

The 10-day cold wave ended Monday and Florida's famed sunshine warmed tourist-jammed beaches again. But farmers said the final cost of the big freeze was yet to be counted.

All of the Florida deaths were blamed on gas fumes or fires from faulty heaters. The worst tragedy occurred Monday in Miami, when gas fumes killed seven persons.

Florida was the luckiest of the Southland states as temperatures dropped below freezing through much of Dixie. Icy weather gripped the Great Plains, with lows early today including 15 below at Grand Forks, N. D., and 4 below at Pierre, S. D.

Most of the nation east of the Rockies got snow or rain during the night.

Glen Dale Amberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Amberger of this city, has enlisted in the U. S. Air Force and is now stationed at Parks Air Base in California. Young Amberger enlisted at St. Louis a week ago Monday.

Larned pushed gradually in among the atoll people. They were all weeping and many of the women cried at him. "Why do you go? Stay, stay." The old, stooped man squinted from under his prominent eyebrows in the morning sunlight. "A sea has two shores," he said. "I'm bound to the other." He reached out his hand. "You, Simon Purdy, I heard the Cap'n call your name. H'ist yerself into the boat."

"Not me," Purdy said. "I ain't afore had things so good. I'm not leavin'."

"I thought I was talkin' to a full sailorman," Larned said. "But you're not yet. When you stand there and talk me talk like that. Simon, there's lasses in Valpo' and Calcutt' and Marselles and the whole world over who'll cry fer ye on sailin' day. Come away, man, and take yer pick of the world."

Purdy moved while his woman dragged at him and screamed. But he left her at the water's edge, boarded the boat to sit facing the ship. Naish was unable to meet the grief in his eyes; Purdy's emotion was too much like that Phoebe had expressed that night in the President Roads. He stared instead back at Larned.

The crowd had parted to let Larned through to Alf. Alf wore no farewell garlands and in his right hand he held a heavy pandanus wood shark club. "Let me be, old feller," Alf said in a low, thick voice. "Ere I stay."

"Ah, be a good lad, Alf," Larned said. "You wouldn't desert your mates, would you?" "I'll kill," Alf said. He raised the club to shoulder height and his eyes were fiery and terrible and his facial skin gray-shaded. "I'm me own man."

Larned stepped back wordlessly while the crowd made way for him. At the water's edge he stopped. "You want to try, sir?" he said. "I can bring the rest of them out aboard to Mr. Bothwick."

"No, there's no use," Naish said. He was profoundly moved, close to tears, and it was difficult for him to speak. "We'll sail without him."

The people ran into the water when Larned boarded the boat. They heaped flowers and fruit and coconuts and taros and fish and a live pig into it, and they seized the men's hands and arms and they embraced them, swam alongside after Naish had given the order to shove off.

It's just a touch mad, Naish thought. Even Mata'ora and his wife are along. This is their dream come true for certain. But you didn't say goodbye to Alf and the poor lad's all alone there with his girl. Go back for him and he'd beat your brains in with that club. He's just another you have lost.

The atoll people swarmed over the ship from bow to stern. The men insisted on going to the windlass with the crew and Albemarle Morrow set up a chanty.

Simon Purdy had the wheel and down in the waist Kauli was spilling halyards and sheets off the pinrails. Mr. Bothwick, immaculate, motionless, stood at the knight-heads to watch the green-slimed cable break water. He swung and lifted a hand above his head. "She's up and down, sir," he called.

"Very well," Naish felt a strange excitement. "Give me the fores'l now, mister."

The canvas flung rosy white as Kauli released it, then he was back down on deck. He beckoned to the women and children; they joined him at the hauls and the sail swelled round the fair.

The atoll people left the ship only when Mata'ora threatened them with a belaying pin, the anchor had been brought short and all plain canvas had been set. Then, though, many of them swam ashore and came out in canoes to paddle alongside. They sang poignantly sad songs of parting, and over and over they cried, "Come back, come back!"

Naish was near the limits of self control. "Ask them to go away," he told Kauli. "I'm not fit for any more."

"Wait, please, sir," Kauli pointed astern.

The atoll had dropped low to the sea, was a flicker of coral, a thin thrust of palm fronds. But the sail of Mata'ora's gift whaleboat lay clear; Mata'ora was overhauling the ship from the land. "He carries Alf with him," Kauli said. "That's Alf in the bow."

Alf boarded the main deck. He walked slowly aft and halted at the foot of the quarter deck ladder. The hollows below his angular cheekbones were greatly pronounced, his eye sockets deeply sunken. "Sorry I played the bloody ape with Larned," he said. "I didn't mean him no real harm. But it was the lass who told me to come away. Said that if I was a sailor I shouldn't desert, not even for the likes of her."

"I respect you very much, Alf," Naish said. "You're to be in the chief mate's watch. Go inform him. I'm sure he has need of you."

"Thank you, sir," Alf said. He touched his forehead with his right fingertips. "You've treated me most kind."

"Not at all," Naish said. He waited then only until Alf had gone forward. The boy's arrival seemed to have some sort of peculiar significance for the atoll people, for all the canoes headed about together and with the whaleboat leading set in toward the land. The last shouts and songs quavered over the water and were still.

Down in his cabin, Naish sat on the edge of his bunk and lowered his head into his hands.

The refrain of "Come back, come back!" rang yet in his head.
